

HOOSICAL FURNISHINGS JUST GETS BETTER EVERY YEAR!

The Hoosical Furnishings event at The HAYC3 Armory was a huge success last Saturday evening. The house was packed with community supporters who bid on 41 different items, including people who value the arts and creativity in Hoosick Falls. Many of the Hoosical Furnishings artists were in attendance, too. The Perry Room was transformed into a magical space. The people who were there had more fun, bid on even more creative furnishings, and raised more money than ever before.

HAYC3 is able to offer so many free and low-cost programs for kids and adults in our community because of the generous support of the public at fundraisers like this one. "People love this event. They come back year after year. They have a good time and feel good about helping this organization [HAYC3] raise the funds necessary to make the things they do for and with the Hoosick community possible," said Kate Bradley. "There are groups of people who try to outbid each other just because they know the money is for HAYC3, which means it's really for the community."

"I can't say enough about this organization [HAYC3] and what it gives to this community," said Mr. Seifert during the bidding. Later he said that people think the neighboring communities are the art centers of the region, "but," he said, "We've got the talent and the right stuff right here in Hoosick Falls." Totally spontaneously, the crowd stood and applauded.

Amanda Haar agreed, saying, "I always love coming to this event. It's amazing the amount of talent and creativity we have in our community. And it's great to see so many people put their energies to work with the aim of helping HAYC3 continue their good work."

HAYC3 would like to thank everyone who came out to support this community organization. An extra-special thank you to Mr. Ron Seifert who did such a great job (as always) as the auctioneer. All proceeds and will be used to support HAYC3's programs and events for kids and adults.

Mike Baker, President of HAC3's Board of Directors was pleased with the turnout and enthusiasm at the event. "Hoosical Furnishings was truly a communal event. On behalf of the HAYC3 Board, I want to extend our gratitude to our staff, the volunteers and most importantly our community for their support in making the evening a great success."
